About this book

This book gathers the handwritten notebook that Concepció Vilella y Gil, widow of Ignacio Simón y Ponti, wrote in Spanish for her daughters and closed in Lleida on 4 March 1924. She titles it Biografía. The support is a Cuaderno from the Urrea stationer's, Carrer dels Cavallers 14, Lleida.

The text begins on sheet 2, right-hand leaf. The covers of our book are a sharper scan of the printed cover (`31.pdf`). The account ends on sheet 25, left-hand leaf, with the signature.

The transcription, the corrected reading and the summaries were made from the scans, with the help of artificial intelligence, and then checked. In a manuscript more than a hundred years old, with torn leaves and uneven ink, there may be errors of reading. Doubtful words are marked `[?]`. When the paper contradicts itself (dates, the list of children), that is left visible.

Please do not be too severe with mistakes. If you find one — a reading, a name, a date — tell Josep Lluís Puyalto Granada (puyalto@coac.net) and we will correct it. This book is living work.

This book is part of a wider project: to transcribe and document the papers of the Rosell Simon family. Concepció's notebook is one piece. In time, the wish is to have them all read and set in order.

In memory of Concepció Vilella y Gil and Ignacio Simón y Ponti.

And to the generations of the Simon family, so that the voice she meant only for her daughters should not go out, and may be read again.

Foreword

What you have in your hands is not a diary of daily notes. It is a family biography in a single voice: a woman of Lleida who, already a widow, sits down to tell her daughters where they come from, who came before them, and what it cost to arrive here.

Concepció is born on 28 December 1856 at Carrer Major 33, 2nd floor. At thirteen months she loses her mother in childbirth. She is orphaned of her father as well, boarded at the Escolàpies, in the shadow of Bishop Puigllat and Dr Casals. In 1872 she meets Ignacio, a lawyer from Mequinensa; they marry in 1875 in the oratory of Our Lady of Sorrows. The notebook lists twelve children and speaks of sixteen births at the Klein house. Many do not grow up. In August, at Montserrat, cholera takes a daughter and — in an account that does not quite fit the list — a son.

The pact of silence is not laid down by the Church: Ignacio asks it, at home, the day they return from Montserrat. She, still weak from cholera, looks for the child; everyone is silent and the doctor hides, lest the blow finish her. The husband has to tell her the truth: the two beloved children are in heaven; and he begs her not to speak of these misfortunes any more. The paper places them in heaven, and speaks of a trial God has sent them, but the silence is from husband to wife: do not open the wound again. She never speaks of it to him again. When he dies (1917), 31 years have passed; they could not remind him. She only unburdened herself and wept alone.

Among the names of the house is one Lleida knew from the cathedral: uncle Magí Pontí i Ferrer, organist of the Seu. The notebook mourns him as kin; the city, as a musician. We give him a chapter. To the draft, Melilla and Annual, another (14-melilla).

Ignacio dies on 22 February 1917. She tells of the funeral, the masses for the dead, then the draft, Melilla and the disaster of Annual, the money of widowhood and, in 1923, her own illness and the death of her sister at Bellvís. She closes on 4 March 1924: that they keep the faith and the example of their father.

We wanted the paper to be seen and read. On the left, each leaf of the notebook; on the right, three readings: a summary in the menu language, the faithful transcription and the corrected one, both in her tongue. We have not modernised her voice. Nor have we hidden the misfits of the manuscript.

This book does not replace the family's genealogical tree. When the tree and the notebook disagree, the paper rules here, and we say so.

May these pages, a century later, go on speaking.

Acknowledgements

Without those who have kept the notebook, this book would not exist. The paper has come this far from hand to hand, with affection and with care.

To Josep Maria Simon Vilella, lawyer and judge of the Juvenile Court of Lleida. He was widowed of Rosa's mother very soon. The Civil War brought him hardship; against it he knew how to stand. To his daughter, Rosa Simon Maluquer, he passed on the love of keeping these papers: the family's full memory, not a cold archive.

To Rosa Simon Maluquer, teacher at the school of the Juvenile Court of Lleida and later of the Department of Education of the Generalitat of Catalonia. She has kept these leaves with all affection, in memory of her father and mother, and has passed the interest to her daughters, Maria Àngels and Rosa, and to the grandchildren Blanca, Anna, Jaume and Enric. The wish is that the memories not be lost and that they still be handed on: today, to those who come after, Aria and Om.

This chain — the judge who would not let memory fall, the teacher who has kept it at home, the daughters, the grandchildren and the smallest — is what makes it possible for Concepció's voice, closed in 1924, to be read again.

How this book is made

The paper

The notebook was scanned as spreads (two open leaves, landscape). For the book, each leaf is cut down the middle: first the left, then the right. One page of the book = one leaf + its text.

Three readings

| Tab | What it is | Language |
|---|---|---|
| Summary | A short reading | The menu language (Catalan, Spanish, English, Bulgarian) |
| Faithful | What is read on the paper, with `[?]` | Spanish |
| Corrected | Sentences that make sense; nothing is invented | Spanish |

Frame and interface: Catalan, Spanish, English and Bulgarian (a flag in the menu, as in Letters from exile). Faithful and corrected body of the notebook: Spanish, her language.

Data and privacy

The notebook (1856–1924) names people in the story. The acknowledgements hold the chain of custody that has been authorised (names, no photographs or addresses). Published on Pages with noindex.

Lleida and the world of the notebook (1856–1924)

A framing essay. We distinguish what the paper says from general history. The tone is that of a family-book foreword, not a textbook.

A city of a provincial capital and a bishop

Mid-nineteenth-century Lleida is a provincial capital, an episcopal see and a market for the irrigated plain. The Carrer Major where Concepció is born is a bourgeois axis. The Escolàpies and the Seminary (Bishop Puigllat, Dr Casals) shape an orphaned boarding-school childhood: confessional girls' education, not a secular school.

The bishop on the paper is Marià Puigllat i Amigó (Tona, 1804 – Rome, 1870): he comes from Vic (rector of the Seminary, Thomism, reform of the clergy) and, in Lleida (1862–1870), brings that model. On 12 October 1862 the new Seminary is opened. That is general history. The notebook has him die in Lleida on 22 July 1865 (leaf 3) and, on another leaf, in Rome; the sources: Rome, 3 February 1870, at Vatican I. She is not "corrected".

That is the world she reconstructs in 1924: not the Floral Games, nor militant Catalanism, but the parish, the notary and the house.

Restoration and family law

Ignacio is a lawyer. They marry in 1875, a year after the Bourbon Restoration. That is the paper. The legal frame, general history: in Catalonia the Spanish Civil Code of 1889 does not yet apply. Marriage sits in historical Catalan civil law (Constitutions, Usatges, local customs; Roman and canon law in supplement): separation of property, not Castilian community of gains. Marriage articles before a notary were the axis, if they were made; if not, each spouse remained owner of their own. The dowry was the wife's (the husband administered its fruits); the escreix, a gift from him, often meant for widowhood. In succession the heir mattered, and a forced share of one quarter (not Castile's two thirds). A widow might have a year of mourning, usufruct, the quarta vidual, and return of the dowry.

The notebook does not name these institutions. What she writes — houses in Lleida and Barcelona, Fernando 45, an income, daughters' dowries, money "so there is no lawsuit" — is the practice of a family of urban professionals, not of peasants on a mas. We do not say they made marriage articles: they are not on the paper. In 1889 the Code arrives; in Catalonia the home law is not wiped out at a stroke (the Code is a supplement). Ignacio dies in 1917: she tells widowhood as she lives it, not as a textbook.

The paper speaks of Klein (doctor or accoucheur at the births). Uncle Magí Pontí i Ferrer is not a household name: he is the organist of the Seu, a public figure in Lleida (chapter 10-magi-ponti).

General history: in the same city there is the physician Tomàs Casals i Ibarz (1815–1895): a gymnasium at the Roser (Cavallers) and, in 1875, a practice opposite the Institute. The notebook, however, names José Casals and has him as spiritual director and baptising. That is from the Galeria de Metges; it is not claimed they are the same man.

1885: cholera

In 1885 Spain lives through the last great cholera wave of the century. The notebook places the flight to Montserrat in August–October (she dates 1886 beside the births). The contradiction of the year is the manuscript's; the plague is not. Many townspeople sought height and water.

What matters in the text is not epidemiology: it is what happens the day they come home. Still convalescent, she looks for her son; the house is silent, the doctor hidden, everyone afraid to tell her the loss. Ignacio breaks the silence with words which, she says, have never left her: the two children are in heaven, and he asks her not to speak of it again. It is not a parish precept or a written vow: it is he who asks, so that she will not collapse again. She keeps it until his death (31 years). She weeps only alone. The paper speaks of God and heaven; it does not say the Church forbade them to name the dead.

Faith, organ and good works

Suffrages, Vincentians, Murcia, Pius IX: piety of the Catholic Restoration, not mysticism. The "work" she recounts is money and masses. Beside it stands the music of the Seu: Magí Pontí at the organ for almost fifty years. That too is Catholic Lleida of the eighteen-hundreds, and it is of the family.

1917–1921

Ignacio dies in 1917, in the midst of a Great War that Spain does not fight. In 1921, Annual: the notebook ties the draft, Melilla and the disaster to the children's lives. That is how a mother in Lleida touches the history of Spain: through the son who leaves, and through fear. The full account (who went, the lawsuit over the date, what the calendar does not close): chapter 14-melilla.

Magí Pontí i Ferrer

Vault note: Magín Pontí.

In nineteenth-century Lleida the name the city heard in the Seu was not that of the lawyer Simón: it was that of the organist. Magí Pontí i Ferrer, born in Manresa in 1815 or 1816, held the organ of Lleida cathedral for almost half a century (1833–1881) and, for the last ten years, the direction of the Chapel of Music. He left sacred and organ works in the archives of Lleida and Manresa. At the Seu of Manresa an organ series still bears his name.

In the notebook he is uncle Magín: godfather, example of virtue, the first praise the married couple give anyone. Concepció writes that all Lleida felt the death. For the wife's branch of the family that edits this book, he is not just another relative: he is the ancestor known outside the house.

The paper dates the death 22 October 1884, at the House of Mercy, of a third stroke. The musical sources, 22 October 1881. The same day; a year she (or the copy) may have brought forward, as she does with other dates. Here both are left. The faithful text is not "corrected".

Melilla and Annual

On the paper: leaves 18–21.

Ignacio has died on 22 February 1917. She is already a widow when, in February 1919, a son enters the draft as number 53. She is much affected: she already "foresaw" the consequences. They give him a year of privilege until July 1920; he pays the first instalment, and the next year the second. They pay 100 pesetas in two sums "to claim him", plus clothes and costs. After they have taken him, they leave him free.

On 31 July —"a memorable and sad day"— they call him to report at two. There is a chance he will be sent to Melilla, because of the disaster of Annual. The leaf breaks on that word and goes on: en 1921. At home the distress is great: money from the instalments, furniture, wages, already spent.

On 24 February she goes to Bellvís with Conchita: her brother is gravely ill; they spend three contented days. On the 28th a letter from Conchita: the son is going to Saragossa, to the artillery regiment, where he has already been alone for three weeks. On the 29th she wants to comfort him, hoping they will not move him from that post. Two days later comes the order to embark for Melilla. The farewell is at the carriage: Conchita and Luis go with him (the train towards Mercadal). She is left without the children and fears she will not see them again.

Everything, she says, comes from a false civil inscription: the register put 9 June instead of 18 May, "which was the true one". It needs the Ministry of War as far as the king's signature; it might take two years; it is "almost impossible". She tells him not to spare expense: seeing him is worth more than the interest. They pay about 416 pesetas in legal costs (in one place; in another, 406 "for the cause").

On 14 October 1921 Sr Villarreal comes, recommended by Janer. He gives little hope. The son is already in Melilla. She writes that he was there until 16 May, and, in the household accounts, a stay of six months. Little help, hope of coming back soon. With the sale of Fernando 45 (to Domingo Bosch, 13,000 Pts) she puts clothes, journeys and Melilla: more than 1,200 pesetas in all.

On 12 May the son sails for home. The same day Montserrat gives birth. At eight in the evening, a telegram from Dénia. Alarms: companions who were to come with him and could not; fear of having embarked from Tortosa. He reaches the house at nine at night, leaning on the arm of Amelia, Conchita and Cecilia —"for we knew nothing"—. They have a bad night. Next day Dr Vicens finds him well. Relatives, friends, comrades visit. Uncle Pascual.

On 16 May they give him absolute discharge. His constitution is much weakened; they fear "a worse ill". On 19 June he —here she says Paco— and Conchita go to Barcelona and Mataró, to give him air, without consumption, until mid-August. They return to Lleida on the eve of Our Lady of Carmen. For Our Lady of Mercy, an image of the Virgin in thanksgiving.

The money

She closes the son's military service —legal costs, clothes, journeys and six months in Melilla— at more than 1,200 pesetas. Earlier, in 1919–20, 100 Pts in two instalments "to claim him", plus clothes. The 406 Pts "for the cause" and the 416 Pts of autos are almost certainly the same item in the lawsuit, not two payments. If the 100 from the draft are added (without counting the legal costs twice), the whole packet is more than about 1,300 Pts. The bond and further clothes have no figure.

On what. The notebook does not speak of bribes. The words are of a file and of the house: instalments to claim the son after the draft; legal costs of a suit (a false date in the register, the Ministry of War, the king's signature); a Sr Villarreal whom Janer recommends for the "litigio"; a bond; and, once in Melilla, clothes, travel and keep — the son "received no help of any kind". "Do not spare expense": seeing him is worth more than the interest. A lawyer's widow paying paperwork and maintenance, not a payoff.

Today (order of magnitude; not the paper). A peseta of 1921, in a consumer basket, comes to about €2.50 now: 1,200 Pts ≈ €3,000 (about €3,300 with the 100 from 1919). Bread of the period gives the same order. As a share of the house (1,200 is ~9 % of the 13,000 of Fernando 45) or in months of pay, the feeling is closer to ten thousand euros than to three thousand. Official INE CPI starts in 1954: an equivalence, not a bill.

After reading

The notebook does not say “African war” or describe fighting. It does not say the son was at Annual: it says they call him up because of the disaster. General history: Annual is 22 July 1921 (Rif campaign); Spain sends reinforcements to Melilla. The paper’s 31 July fits that.

On the Melilla leaves always mi hijo, with no name. The link is the date in the lawsuit (18 May vs 9 June) with the 12th child, Paco M.ª, born 18 May 1898. The first Paco (1885) is already dead. A draft in 1919 fits this boy, not Camilo (married in 1913). Conchita goes to the train; she does not say she sails.

On 14 October 1921 he is already in Melilla: the 12 May of the return cannot be May 1921. She does not write the year beside that 12/16 May. The six months and 16 May do not close neatly either. The 24 February at Bellvís has no year. The notebook jumps. We do not force a single line.

Note: Paco María (1898). Place: Melilla.

Who’s who

Names from this vault (`Persones/`), a reading of the notebook. The tree `H:\11` (v59, to be checked) is a contrast, not a source. Where they clash, the paper prevails.

Ages, who raised her, houses, money, journeys and silence: Notes from home.

Author and husband

| Notebook | Paper | Tree (`H:\11`, not rewritten) |
|---|---|---|
| Concepció Vilella y Gil | b. 28-XII-1856, Lleida, Carrer Major 33, 2nd floor; mother Joaquina Gil; alive 4-III-1924 | Vilella Gil, Concepción (1856); death 1934; mother Joaquina Gil Lacuña |
| Ignacio Simón y Ponti | ~23 in 1875 (also says ~25 in 1872); death 22-II-1917, 11.15 p.m.; burial 24 | Simón Ponti, Ignasi (1845); no death in the file |

Her father on the paper: Jorge Vilella (Vilella y Salduga, of Vilanova del Segrià; orphanhood around 1865). Tree: Vilella Salduga, Jorge (1816–1865).

Magí Pontí i Ferrer (public figure)

Chapter: 10-magi-ponti. Note: Magín Pontí.

Organist of the Seu of Lleida (sources: 1833–1881, 48 years; director of the Chapel 1871–1881). Born in Manresa in 1815 or 1816. In the notebook he is uncle Magin, godfather and the couple’s first eulogy of anyone. Paper: death 22-X-1884, Casa de Misericòrdia. Sources: death 22-X-1881. Same day; different years.

Other Pontí uncles on the paper (old reading Pardi, not merged with Magí): Estevan Pontí, Moisès Pontí.

The son in Melilla

Chapter: 14-melilla. Note: Paco María (1898).

On leaves 18–21 she says mi hijo. The 12th Paco (18 May 1898; the register, she says, 9 June) is the one who fits the 1919 draft. We do not claim the paper names him there.

Marià Puigllat i Amigó (bishop)

Note: Bisbe Puigllat.

Sources: Tona, 1804; bishop of Lleida 1862–1870; rector of the Vic Seminary; in Lleida, the “Vic model” and a new Seminary (12-X-1862). Death in Rome on 3-II-1870, Vatican I.

Paper: pastoral visit in 1865; death in Lleida on 22 July (leaf 3) or in Rome (leaf 4), two years after her father. At home they love him as a father. The faithful text is not rewritten.

Dr Casals

On the paper: José Casals. From sources: Tomàs Casals i Ibarz.

Paper: José; spiritual director from the age of 9; betrothal and wedding 1875; baptisms in the Cathedral.

Notes from home

What the family likes to know: ages, and also journeys, money, houses, illness, silence and situations the notebook leaves in writing. Everything comes from the paper. Where she does not put the day or the year, that is marked. No name is invented. Concepció's death is not in the notebook (she still signs, alive, on 4 March 1924); the tree says 1934 and that is not asserted here.

Leaves: Sheet 2 · right · Sheet 3 · Sheets 5–6 · Sheet 7 · Sheets 9–11 · Sheet 16 · Sheets 18–21. Names: Who's who. Longer Melilla: Melilla and Annual.

She: orphanhood, who raised her, marriage

Concepció Vilella y Gil is born in Lleida on 28 December 1856, at Carrer Major 33, 2nd floor.

Her mother, Joaquina Gil, dies in childbirth on 2 February 1858, at 5 a.m. (the birth at 11.35 p.m.). In that birth the newborn brother also dies. Concepció is 13 months old. Afterwards, a pawn of 800 reales.

Her father, Jorge Vilella y Salduga (from Vilanova del Segrià), dies "about two years" before Bishop Puigllat, whom she dates to 1865: that places the father's death around 1863, when she is about 6. (The tree, not rewritten, gives 1865.) There is no exact day on the paper. In 1865, the year of first communion, they are already orphans of father and mother: she is 8.

Who raised her, as she writes it:

- After her mother, Teresa Soler — second wife of grandfather Manuel — acts as mother.
- They live with grandmother Rosa Solans and sister Candelaria, until she marries.
- At 5½ (her little sister, 4½) they are sent as boarders to the Escolàpies, in the care of Teresa Pujol, niece of grandmother Pilar Soler (the paper does not merge Pilar with Rosa Solans). They stay four years.
- As orphans, in the grandmother's care, half-board until 17, with Teresa Pujol and the widow Magdalena Corsells.
- From the age of 9, her spiritual director is Dr José Casals (who later blesses the wedding).

In 1872 she meets Ignacio Simón y Ponti: she is 15; he about 25, a lawyer from Mequinensa on military service. Visits for about three years. His mother, Rosa Bofill y Ferrer (Almacelles), had died when Ignacio was 5 (the paper also says "9 years" before the marriage). Both lost their mothers young.

She marries on 31 July 1875, at 8 p.m., in the oratory of Our Lady of Sorrows. She writes 19 and he 23. With a December 1856 birth, in July she is 18 years and 7 months. He, at 23, would be from c. 1852. The tree makes him 1845: the paper prevails. Nuptial blessings on 3 August, renewed every year. They marry in the same flat where she says she was born (Casa Puig, 2nd floor, 1st door).

When he dies, on 22 February 1917 at 11.15 p.m., she is 60 years and 2 months. He, if he was 23 in 1875, about 64 or 65. Burial on the 24th; niche with uncle Estevan Pontí, where she wishes to be. She counts 44 years, 3 months and 22 days less half an hour of marriage; from the wedding day it is 41 years, 6 months and 22 days. The 44 years fit if one starts in the autumn of 1872. She signs the notebook on 4 March 1924, a widow of 7 years, aged 67.

The children: how old she was

All baptised in the Cathedral. She says sixteen births at the Klein house (the first two at the Ruiz house); the list gives twelve. The four missing ones are not invented. Ignacio's age is approximate (~23 in 1875).

| Child | Birth | She | He (~) | Afterwards |
|---|---|---|---|---|
| 1. Hermosinda | 6 Aug 1876 | 19 y. 7 m. | ~24 | Dies 27 Aug 1885, aged 9 |

| 12. Paco M.ª | 18 May 1898 (register: 9 June, she says) | 41 y. 4 m. | ~45 | Draft 1919 (20); Melilla |

The cholera narrative speaks of a son Ignacio who had not made first communion: he is not the 7th on the list. August 1885: in a fortnight, the 2nd daughter and Hermosinda. She is 28. The Conchita who nurses Ignacio in 1916–17 is not the child of the cholera.

Montserrat marries on 9 May 1921 (aged 25; her mother 64). Granddaughter Montserrat Cecilia Sagrario: 5 February 1923. The paper also mentions a birth on 12 May (the son's return from Melilla, no year): it is not forced. On 16 August 1923 "a son" dies of pneumonia at Bellvís: possibly the 12th, not confirmed. A son Camilo marries Pilar Cos y Soler (Montserrat, 1 June, c. 1913): he is not on the list of twelve with a birth year.

Houses and situations in Lleida

A chain of flats, as she tells it: Casa Puig (first daughters) → Casa Ruiz (the first two children, she says) → Casa Klein (she places 16 births there) → another 2nd floor on Carrer Major (works at the Ruiz café; Javier dies of measles here) → Plaza 33, 2nd floor 1st door, about 9½ years → lawsuit with Sr Pardo (an illness that brings Ignacio to death's door) → 25 August 1916, flat at Casa Horcas.

Vilanova del Segrià: summers, the family house, nuptial blessings in 1885. The same year a daughter dies, a month earlier, they restore the house (1,000 Pts) and buy the garden / Escalaminas farm (4,166 Pts). The Lleida garden suffers in the cholera (guild rent, 30 Pts).

From the start of the marriage they press for the Vincentians to settle in Lleida. Easter 1876: 12 sisters; later a hostel on Carrer dels Magatzems (12 iron beds, kitchen, garden); in time, 16 sisters and 2 servants. Ignacio is executor for Fr Cosín.

Journeys

- February 1875: two months in Barcelona, at sister Enriqueta's, to consult about the marriage.
- October 1875: wedding journey: Mequinensa, Montserrat, Barcelona.
- 4 October 1876: Ignacio in Rome (pilgrimage; audience with Pius IX); back on 1 November.
- June 1884: promise at Lourdes (sick children); on the way back, El Pilar and the Capuchin sister-in-law.
- Cholera: 15 August, flight to Montserrat; until 18 September; then Barcelona until 12 October, and Lleida.
- Quinsy and a vow to Lourdes (with Joaquina and Paco, aged 5; return via Loyola, 8 September).
- The son's foot: Dr Soldevila at Molins de Rei (April–August) and baths at Caldes.
- St Blaise 1912, Tortosa: first mass of the Jesuit nephew Fernando Palmés; Ebro Observatory.
- Camilo's wedding journey: Barcelona, Berga, Tarazona.
- December 1916: a few days in Palamós (Ignacio already ill).
- Melilla (the son); return with a telegram from Dénia; then Mataró (fear of consumption) until mid-August.
- Bellvís: a brother gravely ill (1921); a sister and a son (16 August 1923).

Money, dowries and hardship

The notebook does not hide figures. After her mother: 800 reales pawned. Vilanova house 1,000 Pts; Escalaminas 4,166 Pts. Garden, 30 Pts of rent lost to cholera.

Widowhood. On 12 July 1921 they sell Fernando 45 to Domingo Bosch for 13,000 Pts (mortgage 8,000). From that: clothes, journeys and Melilla. Joaquim and Montserrat buy a flat for 5,000 Pts: she pays the deed; 1,825 Pts to Berenguer, 1,850 to the business. Dowries of Amelia and Montserrat (wedding 9 May 1921); works on the garden and Ceballes.

Draft and Melilla: 100 Pts in two instalments "to claim him"; about 416 Pts in legal costs (in one place, 406); in all more than 1,200 Pts for six months there, paperwork and keep. The son "received no help of any kind". She tells him not to stint on expenses: seeing him is worth more than the interest. She does not speak of bribes. Detail: Melilla and Annual.

On the 25th (August 1923), Conchita and she count 2,565 Pts at the savings bank (sale of Fernando 45), loans (Bergué, Bell-lloc), notary Tressols, a 5-year term, destination after her death, so there will be no quarrel among the daughters.

Ignacio's suffrages: 25–36 masses, 506 memorial cards with a portrait, notices in the papers; mourning of all Lleida and the Little Sisters' poor.

Illness

Pepita: a cerebral attack after falling from the balcony in the nurse's arms. Javier: measles. Lourdes: a contagious illness at the Klein house. Cholera at Montserrat: Conchita, an Ignacio, Beatriz, and herself (fulminant cholera; sacraments; eight days of danger; Joaquina sisters). Paco 1885 relapses after the cholera.

Ignacio, from office work: tuberculous / ulcer; a long illness from 11 December to Our Lady of Mount Carmel, and then about four years more. Ascension 1916: two hours' congestion coming back from the garden. November: knee pain, a stroke. 22 February 1917: mass, garden, heart attack; they cannot find a doctor in time; she makes him kiss Our Lady and gives him Lourdes water. No agony.

She, 1923 (his 3rd anniversary, coming back from the Acadèmia Mariana): kidney pain; asks for extreme unction on 12–13 April; rheumatism; 10 days in bed at Carmel; on 20 December she sits at table with the daughters. Conchita almost dies on the night of the 21st (eve of Our Lady of Sorrows). The son, after Melilla: nature "much weakened"; fear of consumption; Mataró.

Thoughts and silence

After the cholera, back home: she looks for the convalescent son; the house is silent; the doctor hides for fear of the blow. Ignacio: "the two beloved children are in heaven" and asks her not to speak of it again. It is not a church vow on the paper: he asks it. She keeps it for 31 years, until he dies; she weeps only alone.

Over Melilla she fears never seeing the children again. The lawsuit over the false date is "almost impossible". The son comes home leaning on an arm — "for we knew nothing".

In 1923 she gathers the daughters: faith, the father's example, unity (like uncle Moisès Pontí). She closes the notebook: the life is only for the daughters. Let them remember the parents' sacrifices, keep the Catholic faith and Ignacio's example; God will protect them and they will meet him again.

Widowhood, who cares, sisters and nephews

Conchita (the living daughter) never leaves Ignacio when he is ill. In 1923, Josephine sisters day and night. Cecilio dies on 22 January 1918, 11 months later; she is there. Four days after, Carmen Gigó.

1 July 1885, nuptial blessings at Vilanova; the next morning, the brother-in-law. Left are Fernando (~7), Candelas (~5) and Candelas (~2). Ignacio becomes father and protector to the widowed sister-in-law. Concepció of Bellvís, 16 August 1923, aged 66 (the author, that summer, is also 66). The same day, a son of pneumonia.

Others: Casilda (José Puig); Enriqueta (Barcelona, 1875); Candelaria (grandmother). Uncle Gil, at 13. Teresa Pujol, in childbirth. Magdalena Corsells, May 1923, 76. Magí Pontí: paper 1884 / sources 1881.

Things that stick

- Motherless at 13 months; orphan of both parents by about 8. Raised by Teresa Soler, the grandmother, Teresa Pujol, Magdalena; Casals from 9.
- She marries at 18 years and 7 months (she writes 19) and he at 23, in the flat where she was born.
- Children from her 19th to her 41st year.
- A widow at 60; she writes at 67, only for the daughters.
- 31 years of silence about the cholera.
- Widow's money written down so there will be no lawsuit among daughters.
- Melilla: a false date in the register (9 June vs 18 May); more than 1,200 Pts.

Years in order: Timeline.

Reading notes

Notes that will recur at the foot of the leaves. Source: the notebook, not vault 01.

Names

- Ponti / Pontí / Puntí. On the paper: Ponti and Pontí. The tree: Ponti. The book does not unify them as Puntí. Magín is Pontí (Magí Pontí i Ferrer).
- Pardi was Pontí. Estevan and Dr Moises: on the paper Pontí. Old reading Pardi. Sr. Pardo of the flat (lawsuit) is another name: it is left alone.
- Palmés, not Palma. A Lleida surname. Godfathers Fernando and Carlos; Jesuit nephew Fernando Palmés Valls. Old readings Palma / Palmé.
- Fr Ferrer, not Febrer. Last rites at Montserrat. The month of February is not touched.
- Gigó, not Gigo. Friend Carmen Gigó.
- Recasens, not Recesens. Priest P. Recasens (1923).
- Death of Magí: paper 22-X-1884; sources 22-X-1881. The faithful transcription keeps 1884.
- Bishop Puigllat. Identity (sources): Marià Puigllat i Amigó (Tona, 1804 – Rome, 3-II-1870), bishop of Lleida 1862–1870; Vatican I. Paper, leaf 3: death in Lleida on 22-VII-1865, a stroke. Paper, leaf 4: death in Rome, two years after her father. The faithful text is not rewritten.
- Casals. Paper: Dr José Casals, spiritual director, baptises. Sources: physician Tomàs Casals i Ibarz (Lleida, 1815–1895; Galeria de Metges). Not merged (José ≠ Tomàs; on the paper he acts as a cleric).
- Sanpere / Sampere. Father-in-law: Simón y Sanpere in the notebook; Sampere on the tree.
- Two Conchitas. The 6th (Conchita (1886), cholera) is not Conchita (filla viva) (1914).

- Mother Joaquina Gil. Leaf 2 right (family transcription): Juaquina Gil y XXXX, of Lleida. The tree: Joaquina Gil Lacuña. The second surname is not closed on the paper. The IA reading Inés of Almenar for this leaf is discarded.

Places

- Carrer Major. In Catalan (frame, summary, map). On the paper: Calle Mayor. The faithful and corrected texts are not "Catalanised".
- Vilanova del Segrià (house, nuptial blessing) is not Fr Casimiro Villanueva (Vincentian). The manuscript wavers Vilanova / Villanueva for the village: the faithful respects it; the corrected notes it.

The silence after the cholera

- When: the day they come home from Montserrat (after 18 September; the paper dates the cholera 1885/86).
- Who asks for it: Ignacio, not a priest. His words: the two children in heaven; not to speak any more of the misfortunes.
- Why, on the paper: she looks for her convalescent son; the house is silent; the doctor hides for fear of the blow. There is no vow and no written church ban.
- How long: she never speaks of it to him; at his death, 31 years. She weeps alone.

Numbers and dates

- 12 children listed, 16 births at casa Klein (the first two at casa Ruiz). The four missing ones are not invented.
- Birth of Concepció: 28-XII-1856, Carrer Major 33, 2nd floor (family transcription of leaf 2 right). The IA reading 1853 / no. 13 / day 23 for this leaf is discarded. The tree already had 1856.
- Age at marriage: she notes 19 in 1875 (born December 1856, in July 1875 she is just over 18; 19 fits better than with 1853). He: 23 at the wedding and ~25 in 1872. The tree makes him 1845 (he would be ~30 in 1875).
- 13 months (1858): at her mother's death; with 1856 it fits. It is not "corrected" to four years.

- Cholera: account 1886 / epidemiology 1885. Son Ignacio of the cholera versus Ignacio on the list (1889–1891): two stories on the paper.
- Death of Concepció: not in the notebook (she signs alive in 1924). The tree says 1934; the book does not assert it until there is a document.
- Law (1875). Marriage before the Spanish Code of 1889: in Catalonia, its own civil law (separation of property, not Castilian community of gains). The paper does not name marriage articles, nuptial dowry or the quarta vidual.

Tone

The mother is not “corrected”. We read, we note the doubt, we turn the page.

Map

Places the notebook names. The points are the municipality (or the street, in Lleida), not the house door. Caldes (baths after Molins de Rei) has no point: the paper does not say which Caldes.

A word of farewell

She ends thus: that the daughters keep the faith and the example of their father. We add no new lesson.

The notebook was for them. A century later we open it again so that the writing is not lost, and so that whoever comes after may know where the house comes from.

So she signs, in Lleida, on 4 March 1924:

Vuestra querida mamá que á todos os abraza. Concepcion Vilella, vídua d'Ignacio Simón y Ponti. Lérida, 4 de Marzo 1924.
